

SON ARRIVES FRIDAY, THIRTEENTH, NO TERROR IN DATE FOR THIS MAN

"Hello, hello. Where is this?" "This is The News-Times office." "Say, what date is today?" "Why today is Friday, the 13th." "Is that so. Well, I should like to see you." "Why shouldn't you?" "Oh, we have an eight-pound boy down here this morning." "Good luck, old man. What's your name and your address?" "This is Murray. Good bye."

Being in brief the first bit of news that trickled into the office early this morning. Friday the 13th had no terrors for Murray, who, by the way, is commonly known as "Ed" around the editorial offices. He is referred to by the cubs as "our night city editor."

Outside of the arrival of a brand new boy at the home of Mr. Murray no other news of good or ill luck reached the office. Reporters slithered around all day watching for misfortune to befall those walking under ladders, skirting around manholes, etc., but reported nothing.

Official statements from various news sources gave out that the situation was the same, showing that they read the "official news."

Elmer Johnston, 1118 E. Fox st., was fined $5 and costs in city court Friday morning for exceeding the speed limit on Miami st. The testimony of eight witnesses was required before the court came to a finding in the case. The charges against Johnston were preferred by W. F. Lichten, 909 E. Dayton st., whose eight-year-old son Harold was run down and seriously injured. It was said, by Johnston at the corner of Miami and Dayton sts.

Edward Burgoyne, a conductor, whose car was at the scene of the accident, stated that the boy had run around the end of his car after he had helped his grandfather up the steps. According to Burgoyne, Johnston shot around the corner at a speed of not less than 30 miles an hour and collided with the boy before the latter could escape. Several fortunes of the show were given and the theater was well filled for each. The nine types of the Gossard corset designed to improve the many different types of figures were illustrated on living models and fitted by expert fitters.

The demonstration was cleverly worked into a narrative sketch called "How Marjorie Won a Career," the story being of a young girl who paid off the mortgage on her home and won a career at the same time by taking a prize of $1,000 offered by the Gossard company for the cleverest advertising idea submitted. She suggests the motion picture plan and the preparation of the film furnishes the opportunity for the demonstration.

LOOK FOR NEW CASES AT NOTRE DAME FARM

A rumor that symptoms of the hoof and mouth disease had again broken out at the Notre Dame farm among a drove of hogs, caused County Agent Borden to send a hurry-up call to New Carlisle dispatching Dr. McClure, one of the remaining inspectors, to investigate. Dr. McClure is at the farm this afternoon making an examination of the hogs that are feared to be infected.

Mr. Borden stated Friday that the quarantine still stands as it did a week ago. He hoped, however, that the regulation governing corn shredders may soon be removed. This will be done, as said, as soon as it is ascertained that no danger will result from continuing shredding.

Several farmers in view of the approach of Thanksgiving have asked for permits to move live poultry, but have as yet obtained no permission. Mr. Borden will take this matter up immediately with State Veterinarian Nelson.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN HERE

Members of the press of South Bend were entertained at luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Friday, incident to the oncoming membership campaign to be inaugurated by the association. After the luncheon addresses were made by Sec'y J. Q. Ames, Pres't John

B. Campbell, J. M. Studetaker, Perry Staley, Fred A. Miller and Rudolph Horst. The plan of campaign was laid before the guests, and appreciation expressed for the manner in which the newspapers of the city have always assisted the organization.

According to report the association is running behind approximately $4,000 a year which must be provided for with new memberships. It is planned to add about 400 additional names to the membership list. South Bend, as pointed out, is being pressed less heavily for the support of its Y. M. C. A. than any other city of its size in the United States. The campaign begins next Monday.
